The Ohio River.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that proposals will be received by the subscribers, for improving the navigation of the Ohio river from the city of Pittsburgh to the line of the state of Pennsylvania, a distance of about 40 miles, from this time until the first of December next.

The contemplated improvement will consist in removing the large stones from the bed of the river, and in cutting an artificial channel through the shoals and ripples of a certain depth and width. The work necessary to effect this object would be of a very simple kind. The stones lying in the channel are not attached to the bed of the river—none of them are so large as to require to be blown, and the artificial channel will have to be opened through sand and gravel.

The subscribers reside in Pittsburgh, and would be happy to afford every information upon the subject to any enterprizing persons disposed to undertake the work.

THANKFUL for the very liberal encouragement he has received from the citizens of Pittsburgh, hereby informs them that the settlement of some business down the river, compels him to leave the city, and that those who have left any thing with him to make or repair, can get the same from G. LEMONNIER, an experienced Clock and Watch-maker, with whom I have left my stock, and authority also, to receive whatever is due to me, either by note or account.

G. Lemonnier,

Town of PALERMO.

THE scite of this Town is on the bank of the Ohio river in Union county, state of Kentucky, immediately opposite the mouth of the Saline river, in the state of Illinois.

The Sale of Lots

will take place on the 20th day of October next, under the directions of the Commissioners appointed by the Court of Union county, and will continue from day to day, till Three Hundred are disposed of

will be one fourth down, one fourth in nine, one fourth in eighteen, and one fourth in twenty four months, with a deed of trust to secure the payment.

There is no situation on the Ohio between its source and mouth (with the exception of Louisville) which combines more or greater advantages than

PALERMO

—Union is allowed to be the most fertile county south of Green river, and the whole section of country between the Green and Cumberland rivers is well known to be peculiarly adapted to the culture of Tobacco than any other part of Kentucky. The population is increasing most rapidly, and by many of the most respectable and genteel families from Virginia, North Carolina and she old settled parts of Kentucky. This town is about 1200 miles above New-Orleans and lies in the direct course to Illinois, Missouri, Arkansaw, Kaskaskia and Red River countries, and shortens the distance at least thirty miles instead of going by Shawanee-town. In its immediate neighbourhood, are very large bodies of the richest land in the state—it is about 6 miles by water from the United States' Salt Works, and must become the deposit for the salt wanted in the adjacent counties of Kentucky, and a considerable portion of Tennessee.

PALERMO

is destined to become one of the greatest places on the whole river for steam works, having an inexhaustible coal mine within half a mile of the river, and the coal not a foot below the surface, and also within three or four miles of the town one of the richest ore banks in the western country.

PALERMO

possesses a great advantage over every other situation on the river above it, that steam-boats and others can at almost all seasons of the year come from and return to New-Orleans, there being never less than 12 feet water at its banks; the want of which advantage was severely felt from Pittsburgh as low as Shawaneetown last fall, at the former of which places an immense amount of goods was detained on account of the lowness of the water from September to December. An importing house at this place, getting goods from Baltimore, New-York or from Europe direct by way of New-Orleans, and having one or two branch steam-boats, drawing not more than from two to two and an half feet water, would make incalculable profits by supplying the country as high as Louisville and up the different tributary streams of the Ohio with merchandize. This town is laid off on a beautiful plain or level extending from the river to the foot of the Curlew Hills, a distance of nearly a mile, and commands a fine view of the Ohio and Saline rivers.

Encouragement to Mechanics to settle in PALERMO;

Fifty Lots

Will be given gratis in fee simple, (including those given to the acting Commissioners) also the use of pit coal for five years, for fuel, the use of an acre lot for five years for a garden, timber for the interior of a two story house building stone from the Curlew hills, on condition that the grantee build and completely finish in two years, a two story house aforesaid of brick or stone; the same privileges will be extented to purchasers at the first sale, but to no others. The situation is peculiarly well calculated for an industrious and prudent mechanic to realize a fortune in a short time; provisions are remarkably low, wages uncommonly high, and the savings of a few months can at any time be invested in the public lands by crossing over to Illinois, Indiana or Missouri, which will increase annually for years to come from 25 to 30 per cent.

PALERMO

is very healthy, well watered by a number of the purest springs, and at a distance of about eighteen miles are some of the most efficacious White Sulphur and Salt Sulphur Springs in the Western country, which are much resorted to. At the same time will be leased for a term of years, from

15 to 20 FARMS

Of 75 ACRES each, of as rich lands as the state affords, adjoining the town; and every stick of wood, every fowl, pig, shoat, lamb, mutton, vegetable, pound of butter or pint of milk that the farmer can spare will find a certain and ready market from the steam boats.

The following trades would meet with most encouragement, viz. Brick-makers, Brick layers, Carpenters, Black-smiths, Wheelwrights, Coopers, Cabiner makers, Tanners & Curriers, Shoemakers, Hatters and Tailors. None however need apply except such as are masters of their trades and sober and industrious. Any letters directed to the subscriber at Frankfort, Ken. (post paid) will be duly attended to.

WESTERN HOTEL,

No. 228 MARKET STREET,

Sign of General Washington.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known establishment in Market street, next door to the Pittsburgh Mail Stage Office, and lately occupied by Mr. George Yohe. To those who have been accustomed to resort to this house, it is unnecessary to point out its superior advantages. For the information of others we deem it necessary to state that its situation is central, high, healthy and convenient to business; an extensive range of back buildings, consisting of lodging rooms, afford a fine view of the city to the eastward, and admit a free and uninterrupted circulation of air—and what will give them a decided preference in the opinion of many, is the attachment thereto of balconies, so constructed as not only to afford pleasant exercise, but necessity from any sudden alarm of fire. The great Western Stages start every morning from the door, and on the premises is one of the best Livery Stables in the city, conducted by Mr. John Tomlinson, where travellers' horses will be faithfully attended to. With these advantages, and some other improvements now making added to his own unremitted exertions to please, the subscriber confidently hopes for, and very respectfully solicits a share of public patronage.

Pittsburgh Gazette

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 19, 1819.

"Captain Tonson come again!"

The extreme embarrassment of the times forcees us once more to appeal to the justice of those against whom we have claims. Our paper-maker and a host of other friends, have become so extremely ungenteel as to give us no rest from their importunities, and we have no mode of getting clear of their clamour but by demanding our rights from our patrons and advertising customers.—Our distant subscribers are assured that we feel highly honoured by being permitted to send them our paper, but honour now a days will not pay board, or buy ink. We must therefore request them to transmit their dues immediately, as otherwise we shall be obliged to do two very disagreeable things, viz. To strike off their names and to bring suit. Our city debtors are informed that they will be waited on in a few days to assist us in the present dilemma.

We this day record the death of Mr. Snyder, late governor of the state of Pennsylvania. This respectable citizen's public career has been long and popular, and although we presume that his talents were not of the first order, he must have possessed many of the substantial qualifications for a public life. He has been uniformly successful when brought before the public, except in one instance, and some acts of his administration, particularly his opposition to the establishment of Banks, will be long remembered in Pennsylvania as evidence of sound policy. Whether these ideas emanated from his own mind, or were the suggestions of his ministers, is immaterial; if they had been erroneous he must have borne the odium of them; as they have been correct, let his memory be illuminated with their glory. Many of the personal acts of his administration we found fault with, particularly with some of his removals from office; in some cases we thought they evinced a spirit unbecoming a patriot of '76; we even had this week in press something like censure, but on hearing of his death we expunged it;—on the inmate of the grave personal animadversion must cease. We never had the honour of an acquaintance with governor Snyder; we cannot therefore attempt to delineate his character; his friends however unite in representing him as possessing much private worth, [illegible] can plainness of manners, and as acting in domestic life with exemplary prudence. If they are correct, we hope the page of our history will thus record it.

Harrisburgh, Nov. 13.

A CAUSE OF PUBLIC MOURNING.

It is our painful task to announce the death of our venerable patriot and statesman—SIMON SNYDER, late Governor of Pennsylvania, this virtuous and upright magistrate and citizen, is no more! He departed this life on Tuesday morning the 9th instant, about three o'clock, after an illness of two or three days.—By this afflicting dispensation of Providence, an affectionate consort and a number of children, who experienced in their union with him the greatest earthly blessing they could hope to enjoy—the kind protecting care of an affectionate husband and father—are suddenly plunged into the deepest woe.—But it is not by them alone that his private worth and domestic virtues were felt and acknowledged:—a wide circle of relations and friends, will unite with them in paying the tribute of heart-felt sorrow to the memory of him, who was at once the patron and the example of whatever adorns and elevates the character of the patriot. The history of his public life, his services and his usefulness, would demand a volume, and a pen much more adequate to the task of delineation than ours. It is sufficient to know that the record of his public worth and distinguished usefulness, will be long preserved in the hearts of our citizens. Governor Snyder was a Christian. But his piety, like the rest of his virtues, was manifested, not in ostentation and parade, but in the practical influence which it had upon his life and conversation. It was humble, but ardent and sincere: and leaves to his surviving and afflicted friends the cheering consolation that he has exchanged the vicissitudes of this mortal life, for an eternity that is unchangeable and full of glory.

Mr. Snyder completed his 60th year, on he 5th instant. Har. Rep.

From the Norfolk Herald, Nov. 3.

Extract of a letter to the Editor, dated

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 2.

"Although the Treaty is not ratified, it does not appear that it was absolutely rejected, but that the matter is referred once more to Washington, and it will remain with our government to decide what measures they may please to adopt. Meanwhile Mr. Forsyth has taken a house at Madrid, more suitable to his rank, and having more the appearance of his intention to be a permanent resident, which looks somewhat as if he thought that the wishes of Spain were not insuperable.—But what it is that at the last day of grace is required by Spain, and which could not have been as plainly discerned on the first reading of the Treaty, and suggested at that moment so as to have met the approbation of the American government by this time, we must wait patiently to hear from your side of the water.

"Whether there be any sincerity in all this diplomacy on the part of Spain, whether it is not rather of a piece of that system of procrastinatination for which she is so remarkable in all her political relations, & especially with the United States, time alone will determine.—It appears so odd that any reasonble objections to the Treaty which the American Minister could have felt himself authorised to listen to, were not made at an earrier period than the latter suggestion taken in connection with the general dilatory and equivocating policy of Spain, is the best received opinion in this country. And now far the purient disposition of England may have operated to produce this measure as one affording a chance that something may turn up to prevent the ultimate ratification of the Treaty, (which she would if she could, only prevent,) we are at a loss to conjecture.

"O'Donnell who was to have commanded the expedition from Cadiz, and who only a few months ago was invested with new honours for his loyalty in suppressing the conspiracy amongst the troops, has been found to be so much implicated in that transaction, that he is banished to Pampeluna. Sarsfield, second in command, is also in disgrace.

"They write from Madrid, that Portugal has agreed by treaty to give Monte Video to Spain for 20,000,000 rials, ($1,400,000.) Where the money is to come from no body knows."

PRUSSIA.

DEATH OF FIELD MARSHAL, PRINCE BLUCHER.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.

On the 14th, in the evening, the news which we had for some time dreaded arrived here, that Field Marshal Prince Blucher, of Wahlstadt, terminated his glorious life on the 12th of this month, at 19 minutes past 10 o'clock in the evening. His Majesty the King received this sad news by a report from the Aid-de-Camp of the Prince, Col. Count Von Nostitz, and also by verbal communication from Captain Don Rudorf, the second Aid-de-Camp. His Majesty immediately gave orders that the army should put on mourning for eight days, and dispatched Count Blucher, of Wahlstadt, the Prince's grandson, with a most gracious letter of condolence to the Dowager Princess.

Our readers will be glad to hear some account of the Prince's last days. On the 5th his Majesty sent from Breslaw his Aid-de-Camp, Major General Von Witzleben, to him. The Prince was very weak, but in full possession of his mental faculties. He desired General Witzleben to thank his Majesty for all the favours he had conferred on him, to recommend his wife to his Majesty's kindness, and to beg that he might be buried without ostentation in the open country, in a field on the road between Kriblowitz and Kunst, on a spot which he described, under three lime trees. On the observation of the General that he need not think his death so near, as the physicians by no means considered his case as desperate, he said, 'I know that I shall die, for I feel it better than the physicians can judge of my situation. I die without reluctance, for I am now of no further use. Tell the king that I have lived and shall die faithful to him.' He gave the general his hand to take leave. The next day his majesty, accompanied by Prince Charles, paid him a visit; at first he was in a kind of lethargy, and did not notice what was passing but afterwards he knew the king. His Majesty, among other expressions of regard, said to him, 'you may be assured that no one takes more interest in your welfare than I do. I know what the country and myself owe to you—do not give up the hope of recovery;—follow the advice of your physicians, and take the remedies that are offered you." [The Prince had lately omitted to do this.] He thanked his majesty, and recommended the Princess to him.

In the last few days he was without pain, but his strength greatly declined, and he was quite unable to speak. The body is embalmed, and placed for the present in the church of Kriblowitz. He was born, as far as we now can learn from our former accounts, on the 16th of December, 1742; and has, therefore, lived 76 years 8 months and 25 days. He had been 45 years in the army. His martial glory filled the world.

PERSECUTION OF THE JEWS.

London, Sept. 26.—A good deal is still said in the foreign papers about the Jews. We take the secret of their ill treatment to be this. Rothschild, a Jew, had a great if not the greatest hand in furnishing the allied powers at congress with money.—Other Jewish houses were perhaps concerned also in helping to purchase the intended new chains for Europe. At any rate, the former one was prominent on the occasion; and the Jewish money-getting may consequently have revived much of the old odium against it, and more reasonably. Somebody begins to taunt the Jews on this account—the jealousy of trade falls in, and increases the taunts—at last the remaining religious prejudices fall in too; and when these begin, persecution is complete. There are luckily, however, not enough of these prejudices remaining to keep up such revolting absurdities, of themselves. Mr. Rothschild, we see by the papers, has refused to accept bills drawn upon the towns where his brethren have been ill-treated. The Christians will of course, cry out against this revenge; and then go and revenge themselves of their respective enemies.

Wurtzburgh, Sept. 14th. Our town continues in a state of agitation, four attempts have been made to fire a village about half a league distant, which is exclusively inhabited by Jews, and proclamations are found, written in terms to excite the populace to a general massacre of them.

Paris, Sept. 21. The roads of the Grand Duchy of Baden are thronged with Jews, who with their families, are emigrating to avoid the persecutions of which they are every where the object.

Western America.

Valley of the Mississippi—Region of the upper Missouri—The Council Bluffs—The Mandan Villages.—Extracted from the Journal of H. M. Brackenridge, Esquire.

"May, 1811.—Passed high clean meadows called the Council Bluffs, from the circumstance of Lewis and Clark having held a council with the Otto and Missouri Indians when ascending this river.—These bluffs are not abrupt elevations, but a rising ground, covered with grass as perfectly smooth as if the work of art. They ascended in height 30 or 40 feet above the plain below. On ascending the land stretches out as far as the eye can reach, a perfect level. The short grass with which the soil is covered, gives it the appearance of a sodded bank which has a fine effect the scene being [illegible] a few slender trees or shrubs in the hollows.

"There appears to reign here an unusual calm—the sky cloudless; and the river as smooth as a mirror. Words cannot convey what I feel; and it is only the lover of nature that can understand me.

"The scenery this evening is beautiful beyond any thing I ever beheld. In spite of every injunction to the contrary, I could not help wandering a few miles from the boats. The sky as clear as that represented in Chinese painting—the face of the country enchanting—the flowery mead, the swelling ground, the romantic hill, the bold river, the winding rivulet, the groves, the shrubberies, all disposed and arranged in the most exquisite manner. No idea can be conveyed to the mind but by recurring to one as sad as this is pleasing. Suppose for a moment the most beautiful parts of Italy or France should at once be divested of their population, and with it their dwellings, and every vestige of human existence—that nothing but the silent plains and a few solitary groves and thickets should remain, there would then be some resemblance to the scenery of the Missouri: though the contemplations would produce grief instead of pleasure. Yet even here, I could not but feel as if there existed a painful void—something wanting—a melancholy stillness reigns over the inteminable waste—no animated beings—

"——Scarce an insect moves
Its flimsy wing—and o'er the plain nought breaths
But scowling blasts—or the eternal silence
Breaks—save when the pealing thunder roars."

"In fact I saw no living thing in my evening ramble except some buzzing insects. But there is a pleasure in giving wing to fancy, which anticipates the cheerful day when this virgin soil shall give birth to millions of my countrymen. Too happy, if my after fame might but survive on the plains of the Missouri.

"June—I could not help remarking the clearness of the air, and the enchanting blue of the sky. Whether it is to be attributed to the Alpine height to which we have attained, or the openness of the country which permits every breeze to have its full scope, and thus chase away the vapours I am not able to say. I have certainly not been misled by fancy. We are now three thousand two hundred miles from the sea: as the Missouri from this point (Mandan villages) comes from the west it is probable that its descent is not so great as below; so that allowing one foot per mile for the descent of the river, we can be little short of three thousand feet above the sea. It is said that on the high plains of Switzerland, between the mountains, the sky is remarked to possses a deeper azure; the same cause may produce like effects on these plains. Here we are elevated above the fogs and mists of lakes and rivers, and the sun does not transmit his rays thro' the white medium of the clouds. The light dress of vegetation with which these plains are clothed may likewise be considered. Where the vegetation is luxuriant, dense vapours arise during the night; and noxious gasses are produced which floating in the atmosphere, lessens its brightness as well as its purity. But whatever may be the cause of the superior beauty of the azure of the heavenly vault I experienced a peculiar pleasure in contemplating it. The sunbeams seemed to have less fierceness than I had ever experienced; in fact I could almost fancy myself in the midst of enchanted scenes. In the afternoon we passed all five of the Mandan Villages, situated on high and open plain, in a beautiful country upon the right bank of the Missouri,* which is here about half a mile wide, but presents to the eye the same majestic and noble appearance that the Mississippi does at New-Orleans.

"Those delightful spots where the beauty and variety of landscape might challenge the fancy of the poet, invite to the pastoral life. How admirably suited to that interesting animal, the sheep are those clean, smooth meadows, of a surface infinitely varied by hill and dale, covered with a short sweet grass intermixed with thousands of the most beautiful flowers, undeformed by a single wood."

"This immense tract of country has now become the theatre of American enterprize. There prevails among the natives west of the mountains a spirit of wild adventure which reminds us of the fictitious characters of Ariosto. The American hunters constitute a class, different from any people known to the east of the mountains. The life which they lead is extremely fascinating, their scene ever changing, ever presenting something new. Confined by no regular pursuit, their labor is amusement. I have called the region watered by the Missouri and its tributaries the paradise of hunters: it is indeed to them a paradise. I have been acquainted with several, who on returning to the settlements, became in a very short time dissatisfied, and wandered away to these regions, as delightful to them as are the regions of fancy to the poet."

"Thus the wild life, in frolic still to range,
"From toil to rest, and joy in every change.'

Grand beyond the powers of human comprehension in the destiny of the Missouri! From the foot of the Shining mountains to the gulf of Mexico, four thousand miles in length, without a fall, a shoal or a rapid to interrupt its navigation. Flowing under a mild and tranquil sky through a region vieing in fertility with the delta of the Nile, destined to be the channel of that commerce which has carried wealth and empire wherever it has flowed: what mind can tell the countless millions which shall cover its borders, the splendid rows of cities,—towns and villages which shall adorn its banks!—St. Louis Enq.

* The Missouri divided into three stages would be—from its source to the Mandan Villages 1600 miles; thence to the Mississippi 1600; thence to the gulf of Mexico 1600 in all 4800 miles. The Missouri is the main stream, and should have preserved its name, as it does its character, to the gulf of Mexico; and is wholly unrivalled by any river upon the face of the globe.

SORE TONGUE IN HORSES.

A disease prevails generally throughout the country among the horses, and we hear in many places, among the cows, hogs, &c. which renders them incapable of either eating or drinking—In fact, in many instances we have heard of them dying with it. We copy the following receipt from the Natchez Republican, for public information. Kentucky Gaz.

"Make a strong decoction of briar root, parcimmon bark, white-oak bark, and sassafras bark—add to which, after being well boiled, copperas, salt-petre, allum and assafœdita, make it pretty strong; then with a swab wash the tongue, rub it pretty hard, five or six times a day. Bleeding is also good, and drenching with a tea made of spice wood, poplar bark and sassafras, adding a little salt-petre, This a pretty sure cure.

EDWARD SELDEN, Adm'r.

PITTSBURGH.

Friday, Nov. 19, 1819.

The citizens of Pennsylvania who take the Philadelphia democratic papers, are completely surfeited with Sergeant's affair and the case of the auctioneers.—For months past every column of certain of these journals has been filled with charges of corruption against the Governor, and abuse of Mr. Sergeant. We can assure our brethren, that the subject has become very flat to the westward, and that, except they can start some new game, they had better turn their attention to the physical aggrandizement of our state, as we do not consider that they are at all calculated to produce much reformation in a moral point of view. These accusations and charges come with a worse grace from the "Democratic Press" than from any other paper, inasmuch as when certain objections were made to Mr. Findlay's election on account of some portion of his conduct whilst treasurer, the editor of that paper stood forth as his champion, and excommunicated from the benefits of democracy, every man, woman and child who dared to doubt the innocence of the present executive. Tempora mutantur; Mr. Binns has been disappointed, & according to his creed no honest republican can doubt that the governor's whole career has been shaped through the mists of corruption. But this will not do; without pretending to say what course the west will take, we can assure Mr. Binns that he never can be viewed with us as the apostle of reform, either in politics, religion or morality, nor shall we think of looking to Philadelphia either for counsel or information. Our good wishes and friendship must be gained by different means than attempting to enlist us by petty auctioneer and clerk intrigues. We expect something more substantial at the head of the Ohio; as Lovegold says "we must touch something real."

The last 'Democratic Press' contains a long letter from the late auctioneer Mr. Jennings to the public, complaining at being turned out of office by the governor 'without cause.' Surely Mr. Jennings is too good a republican to murmur at that feature of republicanism which ordains regular rotation in office; it has been the pass word of party; and we believe every governor since the days of Mifflin has exercised the right of removal from offices, without cause. During the reign of some of them, age and infirmity were not always spared, and instances are on record, where the revolutionary veteran, the vigour of whose constitution had been exhausted during the war for independence, was driven from a situation of comfort, to make room for a youthful partizan who knew nothing of that struggle, but from the page of history.—There was no address to the public here; Mr. Jennings and his friends no doubt thought that all was perfectly right; the afflictions of a numerous family were smothered by the weight of party prejudice; no 'Aurora,' no 'Press' whispered a murmur, that conveyed one uneasy moment to the pillow of the executive of Pennsylvania. He was flattered by his courtiers that he was doing right, and he probably retired from the chair of state with perfect self-complacency. Why then is governor Findlay to be arraigned before the public for doing no more than his predecessors have done? Oh fie Mr. Jennings! oh fie Mr. Binns! is this your republicanism? Is this your devoteedness to the cause of the people? come, come gentlemen, we shall begin to suspect your disinterestedness if you get offended at merely being removed from a snug little office.

On the 9th instant, WILLIAM WILKINS, Esq. resigned the office of President of the Bank of Pittsburgh, in consequence of his election to the legislature of this state. The following is a copy of his letter of resignation, and of the reply of the board of directors:

BANK OF PITTSBURGH,
November 9, 1819.

Gentlemen,

The general banking law of Pennsylvania, renders my seat in the legislature incompatible with the presidency of the Bank of Pittsburgh. The former I mean to accept.

I am, therefore, painfully obliged to decline acting any longer in concert with gentlemen whose kindness and liberality I have experienced for years. If I did not say more than this in my letter of resignation, great injustice would be done to my own feelings.

I am grateful, most sincerely so, for the confidence reposed in me, and the support I have continually received, in the administration of the executive business of the bank.

In taking leave of you, it is no small matter of consolation to remind you of the unparalleled harmony which has uniformly prevailed in the direction, from the very inception of the original Manufacturing Company, to the present day. This is the more pleasant and extraordinary, as we have had, at times, many difficulties to encounter on behalf of the bank, and always had to manage those jealous and delicate subjects—the individual credit, and pecuniary concerns of our friends and neighbours.

If, in such an administration, I have committed many faults, I hope they will be pardoned; and if I have ever been so unfortunate as to have inflicted a moment's pain, or given offence to any gentleman of the board, I appeal to his generosity to forgive and forget it.

With every wish for your individual health and happiness, I remain, gentlemen, your friend and obliged humble servant.

WM. WILKINS.

To the Directors of the Bank of Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.

To William Wilkins, Esq.

SIR—The board of directors of the bank of Pittsburgh, have received, with great sensibility, your letter announcing your resignation of the Presidency of that institution. A long intercourse in business, joined to personal friendship and esteem, renders this event to them the more interesting.

In reviewing the many difficulties which the bank has to encounter, and the delicate questions which would naturally arise in adjusting the pecuniary concerns of their friends and neighbours, the board is fully sensible, that they are greatly indebted for the unprecedented harmony which has prevailed amongst them, to the urbanity of your deportment, and the impartiality of your conduct. They would also add, that to your able, prudent and upright administration, much of the credit is due, for the maintainance of the honorable character of this institution in these times of general embarrassment.

No member of the board, sir, has anything to forgive.—Your whole administration merits, and it receives the cordial approbation of all; and they can never forget the ties which have so long and so harmoniously united you to them.

Removed by the voice of our fellow citizens to a seat in the legislative councils of the state, they feel an honest pride in anticipating your future public usefulness; and are convinced that not only your immediate constituents, but that this great and respectable state at large, will be benefitted by your industry, talents and worth.

In whatever situation you may be placed, be assured, sir, that the best wishes of the members of this board for your health and happiness will always accompany you.

By the unanimous order of the board of directors of the bank of Pittsburgh.

JOHN M. SNOWDEN,
JAMES R. BUTLER,
JOHN DARRAGH.

It is pleasing to observe how much party asperity has been softened within a few years; it is still more pleasing that certain papers have published their recantation during the life time of one of the patriots who, of all others, has been subjected to more vile invective than any other. We allude to the modern Aristides, Timothy Pickering. Times must have been corrupt indeed when such a man could have been made the subject of suspicion or abuse. "The National Intelligencer," a journal that formerly, we believe, gave publicity to a great deal of trash against this almost immaculate patriot, contains the following article some months back.

From the National Intelligencer.

"Where truth points the way I shall not fear to follow."—Timothy Pickering.

"This declaration, made by a venerable patriot, to whom the highest powers of eloquence have paid a just and appropriate tribute of applause in the hall of Congress, should be the motto of every friend to his country," &c.

The most distinguished leaders of the party, that framed the federal constitution and strenuously laboured to procure its adoption, were for a long time covered with obloquy; but time has dispelled the mists of calumny, and all now confess them to have been able and disinterested statesmen. WASHINGTON and HAMILTON and JAY and PICKERING were stigmatized as British partisans and enemies to their country, at the same time they were devoting their anxious days and nights to the planning of those wise measures which, time has proved, are the foundation of our national prosperity.

Hamilton, Jay and Pickering probably could have obtained wealth and the highest places of power, if they could have stooped to have been false to themselves, treacherous to their friends, and flatterers of the populace. If they could have degraded themselves by slandering their competitors, and using the base arts of demagogues, they might for a time have received the homage of the weak and superficial, who fancy that the prosperity of the wicked is the fullness of bliss.

How different are the emotions of the heart of all towards the benefactors of their country who heeded not the popular prejudice of the hour, and towards those men of low and sordid ambition who would stab virtue and blur the glory of their country to obtain the pride of place and the lucre of office!

On Monday last Judge Thompson gave his opinion in the case of Messrs. John L. Harper and Thomas Orr, who had applied for the benefit of the writ of Habeas Corpus. The judge, we understand decided that he had no jurisdiction in the case, and of course they were remanded back to prison. By order of the Marshal, the prisoners were yesterday removed from this place to the prison in Lancaster, where it is said, they will remain in confinement, until the next term of the United States District Court, to be held at this place in February. Why the prisoners were removed appears totally inexplicable, as there appears to be no kind of necessity for the measure.

Chilicothe Supporter.

The following article appears under the head of Vienna, August 13, of this year:—

"His majesty the emperor of Austria, has appointed the Baron I. Von Weis, as ambassador in North America, and has granted him 10,000 ducats to defray the expences of his journey, and 6000 for his salary. His excellency has faithfully filled the places of commissary of the treasury and contractor general for the army, during the space of eighteen years. The Baron will have the charge of the maritime affairs between the U. States and Italy. His excellency took the oaths yesterday of fidelity, previous to his embarkation, which will immediately take place with his family and suite, for Philadelphia.

It is reported that Geo. Stratford Canning, esq. (a cousin of the hon. Ge. Canning) is appointed minister from Great Britain to the United States.

NOVEL LEGAL DECISION.—A suit was lately instituted in the Fayette circuit court of Kentucky, on behalf of the Bank of the United States, by its office at Lexington, for the recovery of the amount of a note for 600 dollars. A demurrer was filed by the defendant, on the ground that the bank of the United States has no right to purchase or deal in promissory notes; and the court, Judge Mills on the bench, sustained the demurrer, and discharged the defendant, the bank having to pay costs.

A CORPORATION OF VANDALS.

There is a town in this state, about 40 miles from Portsmouth, containing between 5 and 600 inhabitants, in which there is neither Minister, Lawyer, Doctor, or Justice of the Peace! Neither Meeting House or Tavern; no Store and but one Grog Shop, and that has but little stock and less custom. The town is at present without either Town Clerk or Representative, and has no school going on!—N. H. Gaz.

APPROACHING WINTER.

WHO SHALL DECIDE? [Time.] Capt. Symmes of Ohio—who has made so much speculation on the passages at the Poles into the inside of the earth—has predicted, that the ensuing Winter will be mild, from the influence which the conjunctive situations of the Sun, Jupiter and Saturn, will have on the electric fluid, during the most part of it. But others, as Weather-wise as he, assert, that all the autumnal atmospheric symptoms, indicate that the ensuing Winter will be as inclement as the Summer was fervid.

From the New-York Evening Post.

VENTRILOQUISM.

Last evening Mr. Charles was honoured with a respectable audience at the City Hotel, to witness his singular powers of Ventriloquism, and Mechanical games. His performances with cards, eggs, rings and handkerchiefs, were done with inconceivable quickness and neatness. His Ventriloquism however, is what excites most astonishment. There were many that heard him last evening, who could not be persuaded that he had not a confederate concealed in the room. His first dialogue was delivered in French. Tho parties are supposed to be a gentleman and his servant. The latter is made to answer from behind a screen—from under the floor—among the feet of his audience—from various parts of the room—from up the chimney, and from the street. In every instance the responses are made to come exactly from the servant in the places he is addressed. On Monday evening Mr. C. repeats his exhibition & introduces a variety of new experiments. Such deceptions serve to teach us the facility with which our eyes may be deceived and puts us on our guard against deceptions.

A friend to industry would inform the public, that the Massachusetts Agricultural Society, have awarded the sum of 3 dollars, to Miss Dolly Carr, of Salisbury, Mass. for two skeins of white woollen yarn, of such exquisite fineness as to weigh only half an ounce, and in other respects proportionably excellent, which was spun on a common wheel, and without the aid of any other machinery. It is hoped, that this distinguished reward of skill & industry will excite emulation among the neighbouring classes of the the community, and encourage them to perfect this useful article of domestic manufacture.—Oswego pap.

WM. FINDLAY.

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

BY WILLIAM FINDLAY,

Governor of the said Commonwealth.

A Proclamation.

WHEREAS, it is no less a duty, than a gracious privilege, devoutly to acknowledge the bountiful goodness of Almighty God, and to implore a continuance of his mercies. I therefore, in accordance with the sentiments of several of the reverend clergy, and other pious citizens have deemed it proper to issue this Proclamation, recommending that THURSDAY the ninth day of December next, be set apart by all denominations of Christians within this commonwealth, as a special season of humiliation, thanksgiving and prayer; and that they abstain on that day, as far as practicable, from their worldly concernments; assemble at their respective places of public worship, and humbly acknowledge, with penitential sorrow, their manifold transgressions—That they also offer up thanks to the Creator and Disposer of all things, for the blessings of health that have been enjoyed in the interior of the state, and that our metropolis has been protected from malignant disease; that the labour of the husbandman has been blessed; that our civil and religious privileges have been preserved; and especially for the inestimable gift of salvation by the Redeemer: And to supplicate, through his merits, the forgiveness of sins; that our afflictions may be sanctified, and vital piety prevail; that frugality, brotherly love, with all the social and moral virtues, enjoined by the Holy Scriptures, be promoted;—that the various blessings we enjoy may be continued; and we be ever impressed with a solemn sense of gratitude to the Divine source from which they spring.—And that our prayers may find favor and acceptance, let them ascend with unity of sentiment and sincerity of heart, in ardent aspirations to the Throne of Grace.

GIVEN under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, and of the Commonwealth the forty-fourth.

By the Governor.

ORIGINAL FRAGMENT.

INCONSTANCY.

Yon crescent moon whose sparkling beams,
Dance lightly on the ripling streams,
Might picture well the sprightly grace,
Of smiles that play o'er Rosa's face.
And well it were for mortals rest,
If here the bright resemblance ceast—
Tho' Cynthia's smiles soon pass away,
More transient far is love's soft sway,
In that light heart that's ever ranging,
And constant only in its changing;
And he wh'd hold that maiden wild,
Will meet the fate of wanton child,
Who vainly strives in ambient air,
To catch the fleeting gossamere,
Which still as he attempts to clasp,
Like sprite avoids his eager grasp.

WESTERN HOTEL,

No. 228 MARKET STREET,

Sign of General Washington.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known establishment in Market street, next door to the Pittsburgh Mail Stage Office, and lately occupied by Mr. George Yohe. To those who have been accustomed to resort to this house, it is unnecessary to point out its superior advantages. For the information of others we deem it necessary to state that its situation is central, high, healthy and convenient to business; an extensive range of back buildings, consisting of lodging rooms, afford a fine view of the city to the eastward, and admit a free and uninterrupted circulation of air—and what will give them a decided preference in the opinion of many, is the attachment thereto of balconies, so constructed as not only to afford pleasant promenades, but easy means of escape in the event of any necessity from any sudden alarm of fire. The great Western Stages start every morning from the door, and on the premises is one of the best Livery Stables in the city, conducted by Mr. John Tomlinson, where travellers' horses will be faithfully attended to. With these advantages, and some other improvements now making, added to his own unremitted exertions to please, the subscriber confidently hopes for, and very respectfully solicits a share of public patronage.

CASH,

I HAVE determined to sell my FARM, at the fork of Chartier's creek, in the county of Washington, fifteen miles from Pittsburgh, consisting of about 214 acres, so low for CASH as to make it a great object for any one having the command of money. Its advantages in point of soil, timber, water, sugar camps, neighbourhood, proximity to mills, markets, the turnpike road from Washington to Pittsburgh, meeting houses and an excellent college, are well known —Added to these, some enterprising individuals of capital, are now boring for Salt within a quarter of a mile of it, at a lick which has produced salt from the surface, so that no doubt is entertained of their success. This will be useful, not only to the vicinity in general, but it will be of peculiar benefit to the tract hereby offered for sale, as it will afford a constant market for the stone coal with which the land abounds. I will give the purchaser a PATENT in my own name and a general warranty deed. The title is indisputable. I am willing to dispose of eight or ten other tracts, on moderate terms.
